FROM: James L. App, City Manager

SUBJECT: Economic Strategy – Positioning:
Brand Development

DATE: August 5, 2008

NEEDS: For the City Council to consider a brand for the City of Paso Robles.

FACTS:

1. Developing and marketing the unique assets, heritage and character of the community is a key strategy of the 2006 Economic Strategy.
2. The City Council established a Promotion Coordinating Committee (PCC) and adopted the PCC's Marketing Plan in November of 2007. The Marketing Plan focused on the three objectives:
 - Strengthen Paso Robles name recognition
 - Position Paso Robles as a year-round culinary destination
 - Build demand for week-long events, seminars and meetings

It includes key strategies to accomplish these objectives:

- Create a distinct image
 - Showcase assets/unique attractions
 - Tell the story with/through all partners
 - Build acclaim through 3rd party endorsements
3. A new Paso Robles brand will be used as a unifying element in the development of the Tourism Web site and all promotional materials that are distributed through the Tourism and Promotions office. The brand is also intended to be an overreaching/common element in materials distributed by the City's tourism partners (complementing the logos and identities that already exist).

ANALYSIS &

CONCLUSION: The City Council entered into a contract with Kraftwerk Design of San Luis Obispo to work through the PCC to develop a new City Brand. After working with Thomas Reiss of Kraftwerk for several months and reviewing a number of different designs, the PCC unanimously agreed upon the Brand – Paso Robles – Authentic California.

Brand Development/Tool Kit/Advertising

- An image/logo as well as a look and feel of the Paso Robles destination needs to be developed to provide the audience a visual for the brand that is to be created. This design will be integrated throughout all branding tools developed (i.e., letterhead, business cards, Web site, brochures, press kit, etc.).
- Solicit a design contractor to assess the look and feel of all the unique attractions in Paso Robles and determine a brand image that can encompass them creating a unified brand for the Paso Robles destination. Keep in mind how tourism partners may utilize this brand and encourage them to use the tools to extend overall reach. (i.e., partners using image on web sites, brochures, etc.)
- Create a Paso Robles destination Web site that encompasses all unique attractions, tourism partners (i.e., hotels, transportation companies, restaurants, etc.) and is the information source for the audience visiting and learning more about Paso Robles.
Features to include:
 - Driving directions and flight options (map of the region)
 - Travel itineraries for 1-day; 3-days; 5-day stays
 - Paso Robles Wine Country
 - Paso Robles Downtown
 - Paso Robles Event Center
 - Community Calendar featuring all local events
 - Museums, recreation (i.e., golf, water slides), hot springs and retail
 - Itineraries for seniors and special packages
 - Paso Robles Blog for visitors to share their stories (monitored to maintain positive image)
 - Media Room
 - Section for all press releases
 - Downloadable images
 - Links to local resources (i.e., Main Street, Chamber, Wine Alliance, etc.)
- Tool Kit Deliverables:
 - Logo
 - Letterhead
 - Business Cards
 - Web site
 - Press kit
 - Image Advertisement

- Web site design
- Web site copy (most likely is a separate contractor)
- Advertising/promotions – The budget restricts the PCC from an aggressive advertising campaign, but there will be times that the Paso Robles destination needs to be part of a greater message. A small amount of advertising/promotional dollars should be used to promote the Paso Robles destination. This may be used through traditional advertising channels or through event marketing.
- Budget -- $85,000
 - Brand Development Contractor - $40,000 for tool kit deliverables
 - Printing – letterhead, business cards, press kit - $10,000
 - Advertising/event marketing - $35,000

October 2007 – June 2008

Public Relations

- Establishing a year around public relations campaign keeps a consistent flow of news proactively going out about the Paso Robles community and positions the PCC as the contact for all tourism related activities for press contacts. Proactively pitching unique stories about the Paso Robles area to media contacts will create interest among writers to visit the area. Hosting writers in Paso Robles is important to selling in story ideas. Generating media coverage for the region creates third-party credibility from trustworthy sources consumers rely upon.
- Solicit a public relations contractor to create a public relations campaign and serve as point for press contacts. Contractor will work with all tourism partners to fulfill priority items – key message development, news bureau, tiered media list, execute culinary press tour and ongoing media hosting.
- Key Message Development – All tourism partners should speak with a unified voice to tell the story of Paso Robles. Focusing on key messages ensures the audience has a clear understanding of the area and the focus for the region’s public relations campaign.
 - The Paso Robles destination is centrally located halfway between San Francisco and Los Angeles and is the conduit to the Pacific Ocean for the Central Valley.
 - Paso Robles is California’s fastest growing premium wine region with more than 170 wineries and 26,000 vineyard acres.
 - Paso Robles is the Central Coast’s culinary destination featuring sustainable grown olive oil, cheese, organic farms, grass fed beef and fine dining to compliment locally grown foods.
 - Paso Robles hosts many of the region’s top equestrian events at its quality Mid State Event Center facilities.
 - The community spirit of Paso Robles is its foundation embracing the quality of life families and individuals choose to live, work and play in this special place.

- Develop News Bureau – Create a monthly tool to send out to media audience about happenings in Paso Robles. This keeps the press aware of the multitude of activities and positions the PCC as the key contact for all things related to Paso Robles. The monthly communication tool should tie back to the community calendar on the Web site featuring new aspects of events. In addition, create news releases about national tourism trends that relate to Paso Robles. (i.e., culinary tourism, seasonal stories – harvest, etc.). Plan to distribute news releases through a wire service to broadcast regionally and nationally as well as target media audience (i.e., travel, lifestyle, food, women publications and niche media). All press releases should also be available on Web site.
- Tier Media Contacts – Create a press list of key target media. Tier media to determine top contacts to proactively pitch and host in Paso Robles versus those to be part of news bureau outreach. Focus top tier media on freelance writers with multiple outlets for story placement in regional and national publications.
- Spring Culinary Press Tour (April) – Invite 4-6 writers to a three-day tour of Paso Robles featuring all culinary tourism attributes of the region. Plan to pay for travel costs to bring writers to Paso Robles. Work with tourism partners to create a unique itinerary that positions Paso Robles as a year-around culinary destination. Activities may include – vineyard tours, organic farm tours, chef demonstrations, olive oil tasting, wine tastings, etc. Itinerary will include local personalities so writers meet the people who make Paso Robles a culinary destination. Showcasing all the unique aspects of the region in a three day press tour helps sell in regional and national stories for media contacts.
- Ongoing Media Hosting – Writers are on a busy schedule determined by deadlines and may not always be available to travel to the region when a scheduled tour is happening. At the same time publications are cutting travel budgets making it necessary to pay writers travel costs to visit a region. Working with writers on an individual basis to host them (pay travel costs) creates a year around approach to selling in regional and national stories. Each writer should be screened to ensure they have a story actually in the works or there is great potential to ensure a story results from a visit to the region.
- Budget - $45,000
 - Public Relations Contractor - $20,000
 - News Bureau - $5,000
 - Spring Culinary Tour - $15,000
 - Media Hosting - $5,000

October 2007 – June 2008
Meeting Planners

- Positioning Paso Robles as a central location ideal for corporate retreats of 20-75 persons, week-long niche events and seminars up to 300 persons helps drive mid-week hotel business. Showcasing the growing infrastructure of hotels and meeting rooms associated with them, transportation companies, winery event facilities, restaurants and the many attractions of the region positions Paso Robles as a destination for corporate retreats, seminars and week-long niche events.

Paso Robles Promotions Coordinating Committee
 Marketing Plan

- Develop Target List – Work with PCC, local hoteliers, Chamber and other resources to develop a target list of meeting planners in South Bay Area and Southern California to send monthly communication tool and target for a familiarization tour of the region.
- Meeting Planners Tour (February) – Invite 4-6 meeting planners to a three-day tour of Paso Robles to position the region as a central location ideal for corporate retreats, week-long events and seminars. Work with tourism partners to create a unique itinerary and generate the guest list for meeting planners’ tour. Showcase infrastructure, transportation companies, attractions, etc. Showcasing the central location and growing infrastructure helps sell Paso Robles as the place for corporate retreats, week-long events and seminars.
